The Beautiful Saraband. The Beautiful Saraband.

The Saraband, as danced by the lovely debutants and their gallant partners, was a vision of beauty and a realization of the poetry of motion. The costuming was truly regal in its magnificence and the poetry of motion. The costuming was truly regal in its magnificence and the poetry of motion. The costuming was truly regal in its magnificence and the dancers as now they balanced, now formed a maze of brilliant gliding figures, or again posed in graceful abandon, all the while keeping time with feet and sway of form to the strains of the orchestra, presented an ever-shifting scene that was almost be-wildering in its radiance. The beauty of Richmond is proverbial, but when was debatant loveliness so accentrated as by the trying seventeenth-century gowns donned by these dancers? Like a beautiful flower peeping from its foliago, the marble-white throats of the fair young girls were seen rising from their stately Elizabethan collars. The staffruffs, long-puffed sleeves, and profusion of jewels did not detract a particle from the ladies' good looks, and Richmond beauty triumphed, as it always does.

The cay gallants, who gracefully kept pace with the enchanting young dancers, were regally attired, their costumes matching and harmonizing with those of their partners. THEY STOOD THE TEST.

Miss Alys Connally looked lovely and wore a picturesque costume of pink brocade with high collar and sleeves of Duchesse lace. The pointed bodice was heavily studded with garnets; a garnet algrette nodded in her hair; a fan of long pink plumes was carried in her hand. Her partner in the dance was Mr. Cary Sheppard, who wore a costume of cream brocade elaborately trimmed with silver. The cape was lined with pink satin. Gold chains and jewels added to the richness of the effect.

Miss Bessie Fauntleroy was handsome in a lavender satin gown, made in Elizabethan style, with a high collar and long puffed sleeves. Her ornaments were diamonds. She danced with Hon. E. D. Flood. His costume was of ivory white satin, doublet and hose of hilac, cape lined with lilac.

Miss Marion Robinson, an attractive dendand, wore a quaint gown of turquoise blue, rufi and sleeves of old point lace; diamond ornaments. Mr. Stewart Hume, her partner, wore a costume of cream satin combined with light blue; the cape of cream brocade velvet lined with light blue.

Miss Berta Wellford looked charming in white satin and brocade, with high ruff of lace and long puffed sleeves; a diamond necklace was her only ornament. She danced with Mr. R. V. Wilson, whose costume was of pale-pink satin, cape of pink satin lined with white and trimmed with silver.

Fine Supper in a Beautiful Room.

The supper-room, which was the entire basement floor of the building, was a revelation of beauty. The decorations were complete, and the supper itself was agent of culinary art. One felt as though he had suddenly been wafted from one enchanting spot to another, where even more beauty and attraction prevailed, aside from many good things which tempted the "inner man." The room was dressed in white and yellow, the work of the decorators, Mittledorfer & Son. Huge golden and white streamers swept across the large hall from a central point above the middle table while festooning of cedar and evergreens interspersed with white and yellow roses encircled the walls and intertwined themselves around the posts in graceful manner. Occasionally a basket draped in these beautiful colors could be seen swinging from amidst a cluster of bunting of the same material, while over every door was perched an American eagle of glittering gold. The side-wails were profusely draped with bunting and glittering shields and armor of gold and white, the effect of which was soft and lovely.

And o'er all these there foil the rays of a hundred electric lights.

An do'er all these there foil the rays of a hundred electric lights.

An dore a sight of sights!

At 12 o'clock Mr. Zimmermann, the caterer, announced that all things in the supper-room were ready. Three immense tables, extending the entire width of the building, and accommodating over 200 persons each, were gorgeously laden. Stands of yellow and white flowers towered ly dressed, and the cuisine was faultless. Ample arrangements had been made for 500 persons, 600 of whom were admitted to the supper-room when the doors were thrown open, the others dritting in a room was made for them. The committees, as well as those more directly incrested, spared no pains to make this festure a success, and it should suffice to say that their labors were successful.

There was no jostle or rush. Everything in this department passed off in magnificent style, and all connected with the supper deserve great credit.

The ladies of the Supper-Room Decoration Committee were especially active in their endeavors, and were exceedingly pleasant and nice to the huge assembly that filled this hall. This body was composed of Mrs. Randolph Latimer Norris (chairman), Mrs. A. G. Dickinson, of New York; Miss Bessie Comstock, of Missouri; Mrs. Harry Tabb, Mrs. J. A. White, Mrs. Egbert Leigh, Mrs. Alexandria Archer, Miss Lih Pleasants, and Miss Mary Moore.

THE TUNNEL QUESTION.

The regard to the matter.

The resolution agreed to at the last meeting instructing the clerk to notify the attorney of the Richmond and Chesapeake Railway Company to appear before the committee at this meeting and show why its franchise to complete the tunnel under Eighth street should not be revoked was then taken up.

Mr. Capers stated that he had received a communication from Mr. Reed, the president of the company, asking that the Street Committee defer any action until the 15th of February.

Mr. Belvin stated that as a bondsman of the company he had been to New York to look into the business of the corporation, and that there was no further reason to doubt that this road and tunnel would be built. He said that he had just received letters and telegrams from Mr. Reed stating that the contracts with the English capitalists were ready to be signed, and that he would be here in fifteen days prepared to put up the $100,000 forfeit bond to the city and to give, his assurance that the company is now working in good faith.

On motion of Mr. Thomas, action in the matter was postponed thirty days.

It was decided that the committee should meet Friday afternoon, February 5th, at 4 o'clock for the purpose of revising the city code with reference to this department.

Now a Popular Wall-Street Man.

The New York Morning Advertiser in its "Persons We Meet" column says:
One of the most popular young men in Wall street is John D. Reynolds of the firm of Post, Martin & Co., the largest, if not the only, dealers in car-trust securities in this country. Mr. Reynolds is a slenderly-built man of medium height, with a pleasant, refined face, and with the urbane contessy which distinguishes the southern gentleman. He came to this city from Richmond, Va., about a dozen years ago, and entered the employ of Post, Martin & Co. as clerk. He quickly worked his way up to a post of great responsibility and correspondingly great rewards. Although not a lawyer, he has become an authority on the law of conditional sales, which is one of the most abstruse branches of jurisprudence, and with which his dutner required that he should be familiar. Mr. Reynolds is not much more than thirty wars of age. He is a member of the Manhattan, Renwick. Insurance, and New York Athletic Clubs, and is as popular socially as he is respected in business.

Various "Reform" Movements.
(By telegraph to the Dispatch.]

Chicago, January 27.—It is safe to say that such a gathering as that which assembled here this morning has seldom, if ever, been seen before. It was a national conference of representatives of the various political reform movements now existent in this country, including prohibitionists, iarmers, laborers, greenbackers, general reformers, etc. Miss Frances E. Willard presided and stated the object of the conference of representatives of the various political reform movements as a national conference of representatives of the various political reform movements as a national conference of representatives of the various pountry, including prohibitionists, iarmers, laborers, gree

Run on a Baitimore savings Bank.

(By telegraph to the Dispatch.)

BALTIMORE, January 27.—There has been a two-days' run on the Hopkins Place Savings Bank, caused, it is claimed, by an erroneous publication that application had been made to place the bank in the hands of a receiver. The run commenced on Tucatay, when infly-nine accounts withdrawn. To-day the number of accounts closed out and about $25,000 in deposits withdrawn. To-day the bank officials made all necessary arrangements to accommodate the applicants. The doors of the bank were opened an hour earlier than usual and were kept open as long as any one wanted to enter. No depositor was turned away and every one was promptly accommodated, R. M. Rother, the treasurer, doing duty as an additional paying teller. During the two days nity-four-deposits, aggregating over $2,000, were made and a number of new accounts were opened. When the news of the run became known there were numerous offers of assistance from outside banks and capitalists, all of which were declined. The bank claims to have ample funds to meet any emergency.

A School-Furniture Trust.

(By telegraph to the hispatch.)

Grand Rapids, Mich., January 27.—The Democrat to-morrow will say: The Grand Rapids Furniture Company, the largest manuscuters of school furniture in the world, has sold out to an organization of capitalists known as the United States Furniture Company, with headquarters in Chicago. This company, which is believed to be in the nature of a trust, already controls seven eighths of the school-furniture plants of the United States, and the capture of the Grand Rapids concern will practically give it control of the business. The company is now negotiating with the Haney School Furniture Company, of this city, but has not closed with them. The capital of the United States Company is $2,000,000, but the capital of the firms now in the combine aggregate $15,000,000.

Freight Rates in Virginia and Georgia.

To the Elitor of the Dispatch:

In presenting the views of the Chamber of Commerce of Richmond to the Committee on Roads in the House of Delegates recently Mr. Tucker is reported as saying that one of the real objects and practical effects of the Kent bill is to secure "reasonableness in the rate charge." It is pertinent to inquire as to how these charges compare with like charges elsewhere.

The Railroad Commissioner of Virginia has recently prepared and submitted to the Legislature a statement of the average rates of freight charged on all the several classes of freight for distances of ten miles and upward to over four hundred miles in the State of Virginia, North Carolins, South Carolina, and Georgia, the rates in the latter being made by the Railroad Commission of that State, and presumbly not unreasonably high. They are lower than the rates of North Carolina and South Carolina, and are therefore considered in the following comparisons. The fifty-mile rate is taken at random and the differences are given and stated in percentages. Those who feel interested are referred to the statement of the Commissioner which they will find instructive. ATLANTA, GA., January 27.—John H.

Craig, book-keeper in the James Bank, shot and fatally wounded his brother-in-law.

Theodore Flesh, to-day. Family troubles led to the tragedy. Flash went to Craig's house, barst open the doors with an axe, then broke open the door of the room in which Craig had locked himself. He was advancing on Graig with his axe when the latter fired. Flesh was struck in the neck and will probably die.

The Kaiser's Birthday.

[By Anglo-American cable to the Dispatch.]

BERLIN, January 27.—The Emperor's birthday banquet was attended by the King of Saxony, the King of Wortemburg, the Grand Duke of Hesse, and other royal personages. The banquet was followed by a gala operatic performance. The whole city, even to the remote suburbs, was illuminated this evening and the streets were crowded with people.

Whitelaw Reid, the United States Minister at Paris, has been confined to his residence the past week by a slight attack of influenza.

Striking miners in the Bilbao (Spain) coppermines became rictous yesterday and stoned the foot-guards. The cavalry and infantry were called upon to preserve order. Work in all the mines is suspended. The strikers have secured a quantity of dynamite. Bilbao has been declared in a state of sleer. Ten thousand miners are idle. A number of anarchist leaders have seen arrested.

Mg'r. Richard, Cardinal-Archbishop of Paris, who a few days ago received a letter from the Pope in which he was requested to instruct the French clergy to cease all opposition to the republic and to follow to the utmost the Pope's policy of conciliation, has written to his Hollness declaring that he is unable to communicate to the French bishops the request contained in the Pope's letter. Cardinal Richard gives as his reason for not obeying the mandate of the Pope that he does not consider it opportune to do so. This reply of Cardinal Richard has made a bad impression at the Vatican, where it is believed, the action of the Cardinal is due to the influence of Royalisis.
